

Kindergarten Korner

A child's early years, typically up to the age of six, are the prime years for setting foundations that will help carry them the rest of their lives, academically, socially and emotionally. Providing a high-quality, academic program integrating Judaic and general studies at an early age, helps set the stage for our children's future success. Our integrated curriculum builds upon the unique strengths that each child brings to the classroom, while simultaneously introducing the students to new ways of thinking and learning. This unique and effective approach to learning provides opportunities to create well-rounded students through reading, writing, math, speaking, listening, critical thinking, Judaic studies, science, social studies, art, music, physical education, Hebrew language acquisition, and gross and fine motor development.

Lauren Adler, our credentialed, award-winning kindergarten teacher, is fluent in Hebrew, Spanish, and English and brings a wealth of experience and creativity to our kindergarten. Within the first week of school Lauren assesses every child's strengths and personality. She tailors her lessons to fit the needs of each child, encouraging them to stretch beyond what they think they can do.

Lauren instills confidence, builds community within her class, welcomes parents into her classroom, and pulls the best from every child in her care. At Tuvia, we are creating a community of learners who see themselves as capable readers, writers (authors), mathematicians, scientists, artists, athletes, and valuable, responsible, respectful citizens of our world.

Tuvia's full-day Kindergarten program supports the developmental and individual needs of all kindergarten children as they grow and progress emotionally, cognitively, academically, socially, physically, and spiritually. Here, at Tuvia, we engender a life-long love of learning – a significant attribute for future academic and personal success.

Please join us on Tuesday, January 12th at 7:00 p.m. in our kindergarten classroom for our Kindergarten Open House. Come find out why Tuvia is the best choice for your child's kindergarten experience, whatever your background may be!
